Introduction / Preface

[Sample: The actual text of the master thesis organized hierarchically into chapters and subchapters, each chapter always on a new page. It is advisable to use formatting of chapters.

The range of the thesis is given in standard pages. One standard page contains 30 lines of 65 characters (the line 30 is for the page number).

The font recommended is twelve point (12 pt) with a standard distance between lines (line spacing 1.5). The text of mathematical theorems is usually printed to highlight the so-called slanted font, which is similar to italics. Text is written in blocks. A new paragraph is usually separated by indentation of the first row.

It is primarily recommended to use single-sided printing, though two-sided printing is not prohibited. For two-sided printing it necessary to consider the correct edge width. The reverse of the title page remains blank.

Top, bottom and right margin 25 mm, left margin 40 mm. The entire text must keep the same layout. The work is printed on white A4 paper.

Pictures, diagrams and tables are numbered so that they can be referred to in the text. They must bear a description usual for scientific papers. Descriptions of tables, figures and diagrams, including their numbering are given below, with the same size font as the text of the thesis, and below the graphical representation the source is stated in italics and font size is smaller than the basic text.

Abbreviations used in the text should always be explained at the first occurrence (in parentheses, or a footnote, if it is a more complicated explanation of the term or abbreviation). At the same time a list of abbreviations, including their explanation is given.

A longer text by another author must be given in quotation marks, or otherwise indicated, and properly cited.]

1. Title of the first chapter

1.1. Title of the first subchapter in the first chapter

1.2. Title of the second subchapter in the first chapter

2. Title of the second chapter

2.1. Title of the first subchapter in the second chapter

2.2. Title of the second subchapter in the second chapter

Epilogue / Conclusion

[Sample: Bibliography is prepared in accordance with applicable standards. A mandatory citation standard for the master thesis is ISO 690. Names of journals can be abbreviated, but only in a codified form. All used sources must be properly cited.]
